CHANGING TOMORROW NOW

At EDP, we are in the business of innovating. Our 4 decade long track record has turned us into better energy providers and pioneers of the green evolution. Change has been our driver as we deliver an agile network with more efficient, smart and sustainable solutions. As leaders in the energy transition, we see investment in renewables as an active way to engage with future generations, promoting decarbonisation in energy production and consumption. We are playing our part for a more balanced and sustainable world, one that is inclusive, diverse and humane.

We're changing tomorrow now.

ABOUT THE REPORT

Year 2020 is coming to an end; the year of COVID-19 and probably the hardest one which an increasingly globalised world has had to face. However, despite the difficulties, not only we have managed to adapt ourselves and maintain most of the projects planned in the Foundation's four priority areas for action (education, culture, society and the environment), but we have also achieved to establish multiple specific and extraordinary lines of support to tackle the situations derived from COVID-19.

Thus, this 2020...

- We have strengthened our commitment to education and research, transforming our education programme 'Viva Nuestra Energía' (Long live our energy) into a digital and multilingual platform, which has allowed many more schoolchildren aged between 6 and 16 to access its contents, as well as supporting scientific and biomedical research through our collaboration with the DIPIC (Donostia International Physics Center) and the FINBA (Asturias Foundation for Biomedical Research and Innovation).
- We have maintained our commitment to culture through 'Arte Público' (Public art), a design competition for art, architecture and design students; our support to #nosolopoetry, an online multimedia channel to spread poetry on a national and international level; and our collaboration with the opera seasons, symphony concerts and piano sessions organised in Asturias and the Basque Country, as well as with the chamber music cycles held in the dome of the Centro Niemeyer in Avilés.

- It should be highlighted the special collaboration we have maintained with the Princess of Asturias Foundation and the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao.
- We have increased our collaboration in the social area, by creating specific support programmes for social entities to tackle the crisis derived from COVID-19, and by strengthening the programmes of EDP Solidaria (EDP Solidarity) and Energía Solidaria (Solidarity Energy), aimed at improving our society through the promotion of equal access to energy and the fostering of rural development and elderly people care.
- We have maintained our commitment to the environment, supporting our forests and rivers.

The foregoing is just a small sample of the multiple and varied initiatives the EDP Foundation has developed during this complicated year 2020, and which may be consulted on the website www.fundacionedp.es. This year again, these actions have been performed thanks to the flexibility, adaptation ability and resilience of the volunteers and employees of the EDP Foundation; without their work, we could not have carried out this ambitious project.

Thank you very much for everything!

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

OF THE EDP FOUNDATION

Manuel Menéndez Menéndez

‘In such a complex setting, with a multidimensional crisis to face, we have tried to fulfil the mission of the EDP Foundation, strengthening the Group’s commitment in the geographical areas in which it performs its activity.’

Once again, the time has come to present the work of the past year in a compilation of sentences and figures. This summarising task is especially complex on this occasion, on which, hidden behind the numbers and words, there are very complicated moments and major efforts to adapt the activity of the Foundation to a very unstable context, marked by large needs, but also by significant limitations.

In such a complex setting, with a multidimensional crisis to face, we have tried to fulfil the mission of the EDP Foundation, strengthening the Group’s commitment in the geographical areas in which it performs its activity. It is precisely such strengthening of our commitment to our environment which has driven us in 2020 to adapt our activities in an attempt to respond to the needs that have unexpectedly come up, without losing sight of our priority areas for action: education, cultural, social and environmental.

This is an adaptation effort that is difficult to convey through the pages of a Report, but it is still marking our daily work and the way we cope with the months of the long road that is still ahead of us.

‘We do not know what 2021 holds for us, but we do know that we will keep working on building a stronger, more caring and more sustainable society.’

If we are sure about something after this year 2020 is that the EDP Foundation must be a player that contributes to the economic and social recovery of the society it forms part of. We cannot be oblivious to a crisis the consequences of which are still unknown, or act in isolation. One of the things this pandemic has taught us is that the response must be global and coordinated, since the solutions require everybody's efforts: the public sector, the civil society and, of course, the private sector.

The COVID-19 pandemic has changed our usual activity, but it has pushed us to look for new solutions and partnerships. It has led us to innovate and, above all, to strengthen our institutional commitment to collaboration, cooperation, resilience and a local approach to work, yet not abandoning the global dimension.

I cannot finish this letter without expressing my gratitude and recognition to all the people, entities and institutions that have contributed to carry out everything reflected in this Report. From the volunteers that have devoted their time and effort altruistically, to the entities with which we collaborate, which have kept working despite the difficult situation, with often scarce resources and limited means, but always with the ever-present goal of reaching those that need it the most.

We do not know what 2021 holds for us, but we do know that we will keep working on building a stronger, more caring and more sustainable society, capable of successfully overcoming crises such as the one we are living, trying not to leave anyone behind along the road.

MESSAGE FROM THE GENERAL DIRECTOR

OF THE EDP FOUNDATION

Vanda Martins

‘Flexibility, adaptation and resilience are the three words that better define our work in 2020, a year in which, for instance, we made EDP Solidaria’s demands and requirements more flexible in order to adapt ourselves to the difficult situation the beneficiary social entities were going through.’

2020 will be a year we will never forget. A year that, all of a sudden, turned completely around our way of living, thinking and even facing the future. A year that has made us confront one of the greatest challenges in human history, reminding us what truly matters and showing us that we cannot move forward oblivious to the world around us.

The fact that the world is interconnected is something that we already knew, but cannot ignore any more; this pandemic has made us understand that only by working and moving forward together will we be able to reach the future we dream of, and that building a more just, caring, sustainable and committed world is not an option, but our only choice.

We must assume that no one will make it to the end unless everybody does, and that social and environmental responsibility does not only concern companies, but it is the only possible way to ensure a future and a decent life for the generations to come.

This Activity Report is a way to explain and spread how we understand such responsibility in the EDP Foundation.

‘In sum, a complex year, indeed, and difficult as well, but also a year of opportunities that we need to seize. It is not the time for inactivity, it is the time to move on, stronger and more committed.’

Here, you will find the results of a year of action heavily marked by the pandemic and the consequences thereof, but, most of all, you will find a sample of how, despite the difficulties, we have redoubled our efforts to adapt ourselves and keep working, aware that it is precisely now when the EDP Foundation's work is more necessary than ever.

Flexibility, adaptation and resilience are the three words that better define our work in 2020, a year in which, for instance, we made EDP Solidaria's demands and requirements more flexible in order to adapt ourselves to the difficult situation the beneficiary social entities were going through.

A year in which we modified the way in which young trainees integrated into the company in order to guarantee their safety and, at the same time, to make sure not to deprive them of a learning opportunity that is going to be very useful to face the complex future ahead of them.

2020 has been also the year in which we have launched a new programme to foster art and creation, the 'Arte Público' (Public Art) programme, and the year in which we have announced an extraordinary initiative for the support of social entities, aware that their work is indispensable to overcome the crisis in which we are immersed.

In sum, a complex year, indeed, and difficult as well, but also a year of opportunities that we need to seize. It is not the time for inactivity, it is the time to move on, stronger and more committed. There is still a long way to go in order to get us out of this crisis, and probably the world will never be the same again, but it is up to us to make the world that we find at the end of the road a better place than the one we left behind.

Thank you very much for keep walking by our side.

MISSION AND VISION

On the basis of its current duties, the Vision of the EDP Foundation is 'to be a foundation committed to local communities, which promotes change to achieve the sustainable development of the society'.

In order to fulfil its Vision, the EDP Foundation has defined a Strategy, a road map that will let it attain such goal, always acting in accordance with certain Values. The Values reflect the principles and beliefs of the EDP Foundation's organs and, as such, they remain unaltered despite any change in the Strategy.

The amount of the initiatives promoted by the EDP Foundation in 2020 in the different geographical areas added up to 3.2 million euros. 19% of the total amount invested by the EDP Foundation was allocated to measures against COVID-19.

STRATEGIC PLAN

Continued alignment with the strategy of the EDP Group.
Resilience and Consistency: Adaptation to the context without losing sight of the existing goal and commitments.

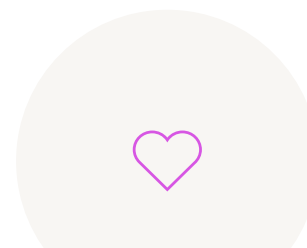

BOOSTING THE CURRENT AID AND INITIATIVES

- Guaranteeing the consistency between the Group's geographical priorities and those of EDP Solidaria, so the latter contributes better to the positioning of the Group as regards energy efficiency and solar energy promotion.
- Enhancing the recognition and position of the Foundation and its work through increased spreading of the EDP Solidaria programme, considering that it is the initiative with the highest potential for repercussion and impact.

ALIGNING WITH THE STRATEGY OF THE EDP GROUP

- Supporting innovative and sustainable projects that engage the relevant stakeholders, in order to establish a closer relationship with the communities in which EDP is present and thus, to create higher value for the society (solar energy and energy efficiency project in the Museo Reina Sofía and the 'Concurso de Ideas Arte Público').

SUPPORTING SOCIAL TRANSFORMATION

- Guaranteeing adaptation to the context and the response to the current needs and demands of the society through the existing tools: Flexibilisation of EDP Solidaria to facilitate the adaptation of the ongoing projects to the situation caused by COVID-19.
- Ensuring consistency by giving priority to the proposals that respond to the COVID-19 crisis from any of the three strategic lines and from a sustainability, innovation and collaboration approach.
- Extending the scope of the EDP Academy, consolidating a partnership model through the agreement with the AEF (Spanish Association of Foundations) and the commitment to skill-based volunteering.

EDP SOLIDARIA

The 'EDP SOLIDARIA' programme is an initiative promoted by the EDP Foundation whose main goal is to help improve the quality of life of the people in the areas in which EDP carries out its activity, by supporting sustainable projects aimed at addressing the top priority social needs, fostering the improvement in the quality of life and the inclusion of the people and groups that are most vulnerable and at risk of exclusion, and promoting employment and entrepreneurship.

AREAS FOR ACTION

- Promotion of energy efficiency and equal access to energy;
- Fostering of rural development and fight against depopulation of rural areas;
- Care of elderly people's needs.

Since 2015, it has supported 121 projects in Spain, to which it has allocated more than 3 million euros, which have benefited more than 200,000 persons.

The exceptional situation of severe social, health care and economic crisis our country is going through as a consequence of COVID-19 has driven the EDP Foundation to launch in October the extraordinary EDP Solidaria COVID-19 initiative.

Helping to improve the quality of life of the people in the areas in which EDP carries out its activity, by supporting sustainable projects aimed at addressing the top priority social needs.

PROJECTS SELECTED BY EDP SOLIDARIA 2020

Promotion of energy efficiency and equal access to energy

Fundación Hogar San José

www.fundacionhogardesanjose.org

Project

'Eficiencia energética y entorno adecuado para la reparación del daño, como Derecho de los Niños, Niñas y Adolescentes bajo tutela que residen en la Fundación Hogar de San José' (Energy efficiency and appropriate environment for damage repair, as a right of the boys, girls and teenagers in care who live in the Fundación Hogar de San José)

This project promotes an improvement in the residential homes of the boys, girls and teenagers in care in the entity. Its purpose is ensuring comfort conditions similar to those that are desirable for any family. This project aims to erect a new building that meets the best energy efficiency standards, for which EDP Solidaria was requested part of the investment required to achieve such standards.

Project

'Transición y Eficiencia Energética, atención a personas con discapacidad y Educación Medioambiental en Centro Especial de Empleo Agroecológico' (Energy transition and efficiency, care of people with disabilities and environmental education in the Agri-food Employment Special Centre)

This project will undertake an action to improve the energy efficiency of the installation of the Agri-food Employment Special Centre, replacing the heating system with a more efficient one and the electricity supply system with a renewable energy self-consumption system. The project will allow a cost reduction and will improve the viability of the entity, at the same time that it will transmit an image more consistent with the agri-food production of the project on social inclusion and employability of people with disabilities, serving as model for others and becoming one additional element of a potential environmental education programme.

'EDP Solidaria mobilises EDP's employees' time and talent as part of its commitment to the communities in which we are present, supporting the most disadvantaged people and groups, doing their bit to build a more just and equal society and, in sum, a more sustainable world. And this vision is now more necessary than ever, due to the current social and health care crisis we are living and which is making all the weaknesses of our society emerge – a society all of us used to regard as the social welfare society, but which concealed major inequalities and weaknesses.'

ECODES - Fundación Ecología y Desarrollo

Project

'RehabilitArte con Energía: rehabilitación energética y arte urbano en barrios vulnerables' (Energy renovation and urban art in vulnerable neighbourhoods)

The project envisages the energy renovation of a building fitted out for vulnerable families. Its main measure will be the installation of thermal insulation on the external faces of the façades, in combination with micro-efficiency measures in the inside and energy advice for families. This will considerably improve their energy efficiency and the thermal comfort inside it, reducing their energy bills and CO₂ emissions. Such insulation will serve as basis for an urban art participatory action on the façades, which will increase the visibility of energy action and contribute to a positive transformation of the environment, an improvement in social inclusion in the neighbourhood and a promotion of the feeling of ownership and belonging by fostering citizen participation throughout the entire process. It will implement energy advice points and energy and art workshops for all the neighbours, extending the action in the building to the entire neighbourhood.

For the implementation of the urban art action and the revitalisation actions related thereto, the entity has established a partnership with Asociación Asalto (www.asalto.org). It is an entity that designs, manages and produces projects, both in the urban and in the rural sphere, which use urban art as a tool for social transformation.

'Espacio de participación y transformación ciudadana basada en la eficiencia energética y en la economía circular' (Space for citizen participation and transformation based on energy efficiency and circular economy)

This is the second year of execution of a three-year project approved in the EDP Solidaria 2019 programme. It envisages the creation of a space for citizen participation and social transformation in one of the most vulnerable neighbourhoods in Zaragoza, applying energy efficiency, renewable energy and circular economy criteria. The year of execution will allow to conclude the restoration of the space; to strengthen the awareness and social transformation activities, using the space as a training tool; to train trainers in global citizenship and responsible consumption in the non-formal education sphere; to offer a space for groups from the neighbourhood and the city; and to work for the development of income-generating activities, using the potential of the space and applying business methodologies to contribute to the maintenance of the organisation's essential activities in defence of the right to health.

'In my opinion, EDP Solidaria is a great opportunity and a way to give back to society part of what it has given us. The Foundation, through this initiative, is doing a lot of good in society, and I am proud to be a part of it.

I think it is a great opportunity to grow as a person, to get to know other social realities which you often could not even imagine, and to get involved in the improvement of the society in which we are living; and you always receive more than what you give.

I am looking forward to the EDP Solidaria ceremony; it gives you the opportunity to get to know better all the projects supported by the Foundation every year and to share the excitement of entities, volunteers and partners.'

'Hogares que merecen ser habitados' (Homes that deserve to be inhabited)

It aims to escalate the work performed in the project funded by EDP Solidaria in 2019, extending it to the entire Puente de Vallecas and taking it further. On this occasion, in addition to intervening in vulnerable homes to improve energy efficiency and their knowledge of energy matters, it proposes to create a district network of organisations to fight energy vulnerability, including the training of female workers in energy matters, the establishment of an energy desk in 4 entities to offer personalised advice and the intervention in 20 vulnerable homes, implementing electricity security and micro-efficiency measures, following the performance of an energy audit.

'Mejora de la inclusión social por implantación de un sistema solar Fotovoltaico en el Centro Amigo de Cáritas en Triana' (Sevilla) (Improvement in social inclusion as a result of the implementation of a photovoltaic solar system in Centro Amigo de Cáritas in Triana)

It aims to install a set of solar panels on the roof of the Cáritas refuge for people at risk of exclusion in Triana, on a self-consumption basis, seeking a saving in the energy bill that will allow the release of resources to increase the number of beneficiaries and extend the support they are provided. The current annual consumption according to the electricity bills is 55,000 kWh. After having studied the usable surface on the roof, it is planned to install 20 solar panels of 400 Wat/u, which would involve a power of 8 kWp. The annual production expected with the panels will be 12,700 kWh, which would entail saving approximately €2,000 per year during the useful life of the panels, that is between 25 and 30 years.

'For me, the best part was getting to know associations and the utterly important work they do with and for the people. It is astonishing the exclusive dedication they devote to them all the time.

The hardest part of my work was listening to the extremely sensitive issues conveyed to us by the directors of the Association, aimed at foster children. It is shocking to see first-hand the problems they are confronted with.

Without a doubt, participating in EDP Solidaria is a unique experience that brings you so much on a personal level and makes you take up again values and reflect on topics about which we never stop to think, but which exist, making many people, including children, suffer; by doing our bit we will achieve a better world for them.'

This is the second year of execution of a three-year project approved in the EDP Solidaria 2019 programme. The goal of the project is to stimulate youth leadership both on a social and economic level, offering them a support network and tools to be able to revitalise and contribute to the development of their territories, while simultaneously creating the necessary conditions for them to remain therein. For this purpose, it works on the creation of a network of young people that promotes youth participation activities, offering them support and peer learning tools, and furthermore, it commits to the promotion and support of youth entrepreneurship, broadly speaking, both on a social and economic or mixed level, through different onsite and online actions that seek, above all, to create a public-private support network and to establish synergies among players.

For this purpose, it will work on reducing the digital gap in the rural population, connecting young people from different autonomous regions with experiential educational content focused on their territory, in a blended learning exploratory journey. It will also improve the social and emotional abilities of young people aged between 14 and 18 with school dropout and lack of motivation problems, sparking their creative spirit, self-leadership and vocation as agents of change. EDP RENEWABLES

'It is gratifying to check how, from a company such as ours, we can have a positive impact on the life of the most disadvantaged people, confirming the solidarity side of our Company. The beneficiaries obtain a higher energy efficiency, which is translated into economic savings, which, for families at risk of exclusion, is significant regardless of its amount.'

I would encourage my co-workers to participate; I would tell them that it is a little effort, especially because of bureaucracy, but it is completely worth it.'

Lorena Linares del Rey

EDP RENEWABLES

'I have been an EDP Solidaria manager for several years. In my case, since I had only participated in short-span volunteering actions (one day), it has given me a deeper insight into the complexity of volunteering projects; they require major planning, coordination of activities and a huge ability to adapt to change. As for the beneficiaries, I think they appreciate the realisation of the empowerment derived from knowledge; in my specific case, realising the savings you can obtain by understanding the electricity bill.'

I love that EDP offers me to participate in volunteering initiatives, because I personally do not have many other options that let me volunteer in such an easy and supportive way.'

'ASTURIAS SOSTENIBLE – Proyecto para la puesta en marcha de empleos y emprendimiento en el marco de la economía circular' (SUSTAINABLE ASTURIAS – Project for the launching of employment and entrepreneurship in the circular economy framework)

This is the second year of execution of a multi-annual project approved by EDP Solidaria in 2019. The project plans to seize the peak of circular economy to try to create employment and entrepreneurship opportunities in Asturias, mainly in rural areas. For this purpose, firstly, a study of opportunities was conducted to identify market niches and, subsequently, based on the obtained conclusions, it will work on employment and entrepreneurship schools, with technical training and specific advice.

'For Ayuda en Acción, EDP Solidaria's support has meant a significant boost to our project L@bs4Opps, through which we work on the reduction of the digital and gender gaps in the most vulnerable children and adolescents. Thank to this partnership, we have been able to take it to the rural environment (specifically, to the locality of Ribera de Arriba), where these gaps are more pronounced. In the framework of this project, we offer students an alternative learning space, in which we use technology for the social transformation of the environment and in which students create social projects that respond to the closest needs, encouraging them to advocate for critical and committed citizens.'

L@bs4Opps has had a very positive impact on all the students that have participated in the project. They have improved their attitude, self-esteem and motivation to learn, and we have fostered their feeling of inclusion and belonging to the education community and its environment.'

EDP Solidaria 2019 | Entity: Fundación CESPA - Proyecto Hombre de Asturias | Project: 'Programa de Intervención con Menores y Jóvenes Reciellea' (Reciellea intervention programme in underage and young people)

'The EDP Foundation's support served to start the project, which has been already developed in Oviedo for years, in the locality of Gijón. The opening of a centre in Gijón responds to the beneficiaries' demand for a closer physical proximity and compatible schedules, both for the teenagers and their families, which in many cases have to juggle their attendance and their work activity. Likewise, this demand was reflected in the external assessment carried out by the University of Oviedo, which pointed out that opening centres in more localities would improve the coverage of the resource. Thus, for the recipients, EDP Foundation's support meant the possibility to access the programme, which entails being able to benefit from its results: reduction of the current and future development of addiction problems in underage and young people, improvement in the family dynamics and reduction of family conflicts, and acquisition of communication and coping resources for the family.'

Care of elderly people's needs

Centro de Desarrollo Rural O VISO

Project

'O VISO CONECTA CONTIGO' (O Viso connects with you)

This project offers elderly people in rural areas proximity services that help them to develop their life plan, through actions that foster personal autonomy, ensure covering of basic needs, and act to stop deterioration, maintain their skills and/or recover their functions. It makes psycho-social interventions and the creation of a support network possible, thus fostering that they can stay in their own homes in optimal and healthy conditions, preventing uprooting and institutionalisation and stopping the disappearance and centralisation of social and health care services.

During 2020, the 'Lurra in Love' project has allowed to contract 7 people and 2 more took work placements; has provided the space to develop the pre-employment workshop 'Soloan', which every year follows the progress of 10 people; has hosted volunteering solidarity initiatives; has raised awareness about local and healthy consumption; has activated underused land; has participated in community structures; and has supported small producers and local retail trade. Its ultimate goal is the social inclusion and employability of people in a situation of vulnerability as a mean to develop their personal, professional and community projects.'

'Mayores En Red' (Networking elderly people)

This project wants to create a mobile radio and an online virtual one, with contents including different topics that foster social change, such as active aging, loneliness prevention, equality or social fight, in which autonomous and dependent elder people can participate, through the people accompanying them and/or carers, even from their own homes. The main goal of this space is to turn these persons into active agents of communication, making them create their own radio contents and/or productions, featuring them as the real main figures and integrating them into the association tissue, improving their knowledge and bond with other territorial resources.

EDP Solidaria 2019 | Entity: Fundación Tomillo | Project: 'SMART CITIES: propuesta para la inclusión social y la empleabilidad de los jóvenes en la Comunidad de Madrid' (SMART CITIES: proposal for the social inclusion and employability of young people in the Region of Madrid)

'With the SMART CITIES project, we aimed to take one step further and integrate technology into these social impact projects, both in young people and in the community. This involved intensively working on the SDGs and on the innovative concept of Smart Cities, which builds interconnected efficient communities that guarantee the well-being and inclusion of all the people thereof; all this including a very powerful digital basis which was new for young people and involved a challenge for educators.

Thanks to EDP Solidaria's support, we have achieved to implement such digital basis in the social impact projects that our Foundation develops. We have realised that individual support, personalisation, training and community projects, on one side, and technology, on the other side, are not incompatible, but quite the opposite, supplementary and necessary for each other.

It is also relevant to highlight the impact as regards youth education adherence during the pandemic. None of the young people that was actively participating in the project in January dropped it out in the lockdown months. This speaks positively about the development of their own autonomy and, specifically, about skills such as self-regulation, growth mentality, empathy, etc. It should be noted that most of them were absentee students in the ordinary education system nine months earlier.'

Programme and Project Expert

Vanessa Díaz González

Project Coordinator

Entity: AFESA Asturias I Project: 'Apoyándonos para la vida independiente' (Supporting ourselves for independent living)

'EDP Solidaria's support has meant the materialisation of the launch of this project and has ensured its implementation. This fact has been fundamental in order that all the agents involved, the entity itself and the public administration checked the validity of the planned intervention methodology, the needs covered by the project and its future potential.

For the beneficiaries, the project has involved the acquisition of habits and skills that will allow them to lead an autonomous and independent life, without needing to resort to institutionalisation. It has brought an improvement in their quality of life and in the future projection of their own life project. For the workers with their own experience in mental health who have intervened as technical staff, it has been their first work experience and an opportunity to also start their own life project.

The implementation of the project has entailed the development of a new resource, with an innovative therapeutic intervention, which has been well received by the public services, which support it, and which we hope can become the spearhead of other similar experiences.'

Entity: Medicus Mundi Navarra Aragón Madrid I Project: 'Espacio de participación y transformación ciudadana basada en la eficiencia energética y en la economía circular' (Space for citizen participation and transformation based on energy efficiency and circular economy)

'EDP Solidaria's support has allowed us to achieve a little dream: having a space open to citizens, but a sustainable, ecological and energy efficient one that serves to prove that, in the cities, it is possible to renovate spaces for citizen use in a more sustainable way.

Despite the pandemic and the delays it has caused to the project, now, young people, volunteers and the residents of a very vulnerable neighbourhood in Zaragoza, in which most of the buildings are very old and poorly efficient in energy terms, have a space in which they can participate that is unique in the city; most of the material used is recycled and ecological, and it operates on clean energies.

Furthermore, we have reduced our environmental impact and, since we have worked with a company for employability purposes, we have managed that vulnerable people acquire important knowledge about sustainable renovation of urban spaces, which is going to help them in their professional future.'

'Thanks to the EDP Foundation's support, we have been able to focus our work on the improvement in the autonomy of people with reduced vision and visual impairment through technology. This support has been fundamental in the pandemic and lockdown situation, also in order to stand by people with visual impairment in these times of uncertainty and major difficulty of development. Thus, it has been achieved that 100% of the onsite care beneficiaries state that their quality of life has improved in some respect.

Furthermore, the development of this project has allowed us to have a training platform and other investments for the future, of which we will be making the most. This is in addition to the training we have received and which we consider a further investment resource.

This is why we would like to thank the EDP Foundation for the priceless work it performs.'

This project consists in improving the quality of life of our elders as regards their relationship with the financial field. 'During 2020, we have also started supporting people and small companies in the rural areas of Asturias in their entrepreneurial process in order to provide them with tools. Both unemployed people and entrepreneurs and small companies have been supported throughout the year to start businesses, and they have received training in specific and cross-cutting matters related to circular economy. Thanks to the technical support, 18 people have received training and advice to carry out their business idea.

Out of the entire action, we would like to highlight the entrepreneur Cristina Secades Cicero, with her Kiwin Bio project. It is a sustainable agri-food project in an ecological farm for the production of baby kiwi and Asturian dessert apple. The abilities acquired and the self-confidence created enabled Cristina to sign up for the EWA initiative (Empowering Women in Agrifood), in which she was selected, along with 9 other projects, as the best ones in the entire Spanish territory.

'The support of the EDP Foundation has meant, first of all, an incentive and the recognition of a project relatively new in the entity, which pushes us to maintain our determination to foster and promote it further. Since its beginning, we have been committed to the therapeutical benefits brought by artistic expression and, particularly for this project – music – to the minors and adults we support in the social organisation. This is why, in the second place, it has also involved the possibility to continue the performed work based on the planned project, both as regards the payment of the salaries of the professionals developing it as well as minor expenses – material and technical – required for its execution.

As for the impact in 2020, it must be taken into special consideration the start of the state of alert dated on 13 March and the pandemic situation on a global level, which, as one would expect, deeply affected the development of this activity and the remaining activities performed by the organisation. This pandemic situation involved the forced restriction of the actions that were not classified as essential activities.

Despite this scenario, and also because of it, the performed activities entailed a strengthened creative and emotional support to the minors and adults that were affected by the lockdown situation and the social restrictions, creating a space for catharsis and psychological well-being.'

ENERGÍA SOLIDARIA

It is a programme that seeks to promote energy efficiency and sustainability through different initiatives, engaging the different business areas of EDP and its volunteer employees.

The main goal of Energía Solidaria is to increase the safety, well-being and energy efficiency of the most vulnerable families identified by Cáritas and Cruz Roja, by analysing the energy situation of their households and performing activities aimed at reducing their energy bill and changing their consumption habits. The activities include, among others, the implementation of energy measures in dwellings, as well as training in efficient energy consumption habits, which will allow families to make a sustainable use of energy in accordance with their financial resources.

Energía Solidaria has the same goals as regards the installations of non-profit organisations, carrying out activities parallel to those performed with families, with the aim of improving the energy and economic sustainability of such installations.

As a consequence of the situation generated by COVID-19, during year 2020, EDP's volunteers have not been able to conduct their usual visits to the households of the vulnerable families, although the actions for improvement detected in previous visits have been carried out in the dwellings and centres specified by Cruz Roja and Caritas, thus benefiting 18 families, 6 centres and more than 1,800 people.

Also in 2020, the EDP Foundation joined the pilot experience of the first renewable and solidarity 'Barrio Solar' (Solar Neighbourhood) in Spain, which will be installed in Zaragoza. In addition to the technical audits, the processing of energy certificates, the technical inspections or the replacement of basic equipment (such as LED, radiators, boilers, etc.), the 'Barrio Solar' Office will be created in order to carry out different environmental and energy awareness, education and advice initiatives, which will be open to all the neighbours.

Since 2015, the EDP Foundation has supported 331 families and 69 centres, to which it has allocated a total of 780,500 euros, thus benefiting more than 70,000 people and engaging more than 139 volunteers from EDP.

EDP FOUNDATION ACADEMY

It is aimed at contributing to strengthen the organisational capabilities of partner companies in order to reinforce their social impact and at contributing to fulfil the global goal of the EDP Solidaria programme. This initiative is a clear example of how the EDP Foundation tries to offer all the social entities, regardless of their size, the opportunities and tools required to improve their operation, impact and efficiency.

In 2020, due to COVID-19, the academy opened to entities registered at the Asociación Española de Fundaciones (Spanish Association of Foundations) and all the sessions became telematic. 70 entities attended a total of 11 fully free training sessions, such as Social Innovation, Preparation of Projects with an Impact, Impact Measurement, Sustainable Finances or Financial Management focused on NGOs.

Since 2019, the Academy has reached 102 entities and engaged around 900 attendees from Asturias, Galicia, Aragon, the Basque Country, Madrid, Cantabria and Andalusia, with 27 sessions.

'I was a volunteer trainer in the Academy of the EDP Foundation, an excellent opportunity to volunteer with the backing of a leading company such as EDP.

For me, the best was being able to participate along with my co-workers in a solidarity initiative, in which we tried to share with the NGOs a little bit of our daily work, in the hope that our experience and expertise were useful for them to improve their management.'

Esther González Sancho

EDP SPAIN

'As a volunteer, what matters the most to me is being able to contribute and share really useful and practical expertise with the entities.

Being on the spot always helps us to encourage participation, but all of us are already getting familiarised with this new online format, which could be carried out this year thanks to, undoubtedly, the Foundation's quick decision to adapt it to the streaming format, the volunteers that adapted the contents and the Digital Processes' efforts, which have worked so hard this year.

I think that the best of the EDP Academy is that all of us learn.'

Ana Pedrosa

EDP SPAIN

'This year has been a new challenge, due to the channel used, but it was certainly worth it.

It is a privilege to work in a Company that promotes Volunteering not only in terms of initiatives, but also providing the conditions to do it. Regardless of the intensity of the work, we must try to do our bit to improve the conditions of those who need it the most. Even though it is sometimes difficult to combine it with work, it is an experience that I would always recommend.'

'PUNTOS RESPONSABLES'

It is a fully free programme that rewards EDP customers with a number of points obtained in different ways: for each kWh of gas or electricity consumed, for associating new contracts, for each year of membership in the programme, for participating in EDP initiatives, etc. The accumulated points can be exchanged for gifts or donated for the implementation of solidarity projects through different NGOs. These are the so-called 'Puntos Responsables' (Responsible Points).

During 2020, EDP customers contributed 46,243,000 Responsible Points. The EDP Foundation contributed an equal amount of additional points, as a result of which the equivalent economic amount totalled €92,486. The entities that benefited from this programme were: Comedores Sociales, Cruz Roja, Cocina Económica, Plantación árboles, Fundación Síndrome Down, DYA, Fundación Oso, Teléfono de la Esperanza and Energía Sin Fronteras.

'ORDENADORES SOLIDARIOS'

Through this initiative, every worker can opt to purchase their own computer equipment (personal computer and peripherals) when it is time to withdraw them and they are not going to be used any more. The worker will acquire the computer equipment by paying a certain amount according to the type of computer, which the EDP Foundation will donate to the non-profit organisation chosen by the employee. In 2020, €7,590 have been raised and 161 computers have been donated to different entities.

Since its launch in July 2014, €104,387 have been raised and 1,528 pieces of computer equipment have been donated.

OTHER COLLABORATIONS

The Walk On Project (WOP)

This year again, the EDP Foundation collaborated with the WOP, which develops different fund-raising initiatives to fund research projects pursuing therapies for neurodegenerative diseases.

• 'ESTROPATADA'

It is a sustainable WOPatos race, which this year was adapted to the online format. The EDP Foundation funded part of a WOPatón with which we wanted to pay homage to the health care workers for their dedication during this pandemic.

• 'EL MAYOR ÁRBOL DE NAVIDAD WOP' (THE BIGGEST WOP CHRISTMAS TREE)

The EDP Foundation participated in this exciting challenge lighting up a big tree with optimistic messages and being part of a vast social action. Each pineapple that lighted up this tree contributed minutes of science and health to therapies.

Busti Zaitetz 23rd Series

This awareness event, which invites society to 'get their feet wet' in swimming pools or beaches as a symbol of support to people suffering from multiple sclerosis, was turned into an online event in which funds were raised to maintain the rehabilitation centres of the Associations in Euskadi.

AECC fun races / Sports Association Monte Areo

As a consequence of the pandemic, most of the charity sports events were suspended. However, we collaborated with two virtual events organised by the Spanish Association Against Cancer (AECC) and the Sports Association Monte Areo, which achieved to raise €3,300 to support children with cancer.

MARTÍN GONZÁLEZ DEL VALLE 2019-2020 WORK PLACEMENTS

The work placement programme of the EDP Foundation allows many young people to supplement their university education through remunerated work placements at different EDP offices, in order that they can acquire skills that will help them to make their way through an increasingly complex and competitive labour market which is getting increasingly hard for the youth to enter. Plus, they not only acquire technical skills and experience in a work environment, but they also receive training in key topics related to sustainable development and corporate responsible behaviour, gathered in the different policies of the company, such as the quality or environmental policies.

This year, a total of 152 trainees from 10 Spanish universities have joined our programme, open to students from more than 30 specialities from different colleges and faculties, including postgraduate studies. Due to the pandemic, the experience was carried out by telematic means. Likewise, a laptop was provided to every trainee so they were able to take the placement online and have access to the company applications.

Since its implementation, more than 100 people who participated in the programme have joined the staff of the EDP Group in Spain.

'On my first day, right after arriving at EDP, I had a host of feelings. On the one hand, I was happy for the opportunity they were giving me to work with them, but, on the other hand, I was a little scared, since it was my first work placement and I did not know whether I would be up to it or meet the expectations of my position.

This fear quickly disappeared; my co-workers were always willing to help me with any problem or doubt that may come up and they still do that at present, so the improvement is continuous.

Over this time, I have learnt to perform a great variety of tasks in this department, among which I could highlight learning how to handle the SAS Guide, Information Map Studio or Olap Cube Studio tools, in addition to others for different purposes.

Through the performance of this work placement, I hope to acquire further knowledge about these tools, others tools and their purposes, and teamwork but, most of all, to better cope in the student and labour spheres thanks to everything we have been learning and still are.'

'VIVA NUESTRA ENERGÍA'

The education programme 'Viva Nuestra Energía' (Long live our energy) has been bringing boys and girls closer to key concepts related to energy and sustainability for more than 11 years.

Even though 'Viva Nuestra Energía' started out as a group of face-to-face workshops in order to help children to better understand the world and the environment and to become aware and responsible consumers, the challenge for year 2020 has been adapting the programme to the situation caused by COVID-19, promoting the renewable energy message beyond a specific physical environment.

To this end, 'Viva Nuestra Energía' has been transformed into a didactic multilingual digital platform (Web + APP), which allows schoolchildren aged between 6 and 16 (Primary and Secondary stages) to use it on a local or remote basis on a national level, thus extending the initial geographical range to which the programme was limited.

'Viva Nuestra Energía' has put at the disposal of students and teachers 'La Gran Aventura' (The Great Adventure): the discovery of energies through avatars that allow the interaction of all the participants, including online games, weekly tests and challenges that have a major motivating effect on students.

During the first half of 2020, it reached 4,086 boys and girls from 41 schools, thanks to agreements with the different Regional Departments of Education, which have made it possible to integrate the contents of the programme into the primary education curriculum.

Since October 2020, the digital platform has been used approximately by 9,000 students from different areas of the country, and it has even been tentatively used in other countries. Up to December 2020, 15 chapters have been added to 'La Gran Aventura', in addition to 50 resources for different subjects, fun video experiments and a classroom management application for teachers.

The main goals of the application will be promoting teamwork among students and online/offline work in these times of uncertainty, so that, not only it moves forward towards a more sustainable and avant-garde future, but it will also help teachers in the digitisation of the classroom.

'The work placement of the EDP Foundation has been a great opportunity. I started a few months ago and, from the first moment, I have felt welcomed by my co-workers. You usually picture your first day of a work placement as a chaotic moment, but in my case, it was not like that; since the first moment, I fitted in perfectly and was able to start working.

As one would expect from someone who has studied my degree, when I started, I did not know anything about the electricity industry. However, this has not been a problem. Thanks to the knowledge transmitted by my tutor and my co-workers, I have been able to fit in without any problem and learn from them. The work atmosphere is ideal. This work placement is an important milestone in my training, and I am sure that it will be very useful for my academic and professional future.'

WHAT DO OUR TRAINEES SAY?

Olga Medina Castillo

4th year Business Management and Administration
EDP department: B2B Sales

'To tell the truth, at first, it scared me a little bit, but I was very well received by my co-workers and my tutor, who have always helped me with everything I needed. The tasks that I perform are downloading and preparing the relevant documentation, preparing price comparisons, opening contacts on the portal, making calls to filter new and future customers of the company... in short, helping my co-workers as much as possible.

My experience at EDP Foundation is helping me to put into practice the theoretical knowledge acquired during my degree, as well as acquiring work experience and professional development for my future.

Despite the current situation we are living, I have been able to take the placement onsite, which has allowed me to get to know the work environment and the excellent employees of the company.

From the first moment, my tutor has explained to me in detail all the tasks to be performed, such as, for example, issuing and cancelling guarantees, factoring, sending payment orders, obtaining reports on outstanding and collected items... and I still have so much to learn.

I think there could be no better company to start my professional career, since it has allowed me not only to put into practice all the theoretical knowledge that I have been learning throughout my degree, but also to acquire a deeper understanding of the treasury department and the energy industry, as well as developing my communication and social skills.'

Diego Martínez García

Bachelor's Degree in Labour Relations and Human Resources
EDP department: Labour Relations

'When I started my work placement in the EDP Group, I felt deeply astonished and happy, since, because of the pandemic we are going through, I thought I would not find any company that selected me due to the scarce work placement positions offered.

Once I started the work placement, I discovered an office work environment which, up to that moment, had been unknown to me, and although it was not my first work experience, it was indeed in the large company sphere and, especially, in the human resources sector. For this reason, at first, I felt a bit doubtful and worried about whether I would be able to perform the different tasks I would be required; however, those doubts quickly disappeared, since the people in my department and my placement tutor helped me to face each experience and activity, and they solved any doubt or problem I might have.

If I had to sum up my experience taking a work placement in the EDP Group, I would undoubtedly have to say that it has served me to develop myself in many senses and to be able to apply little by little the theory I have been learning throughout my degree, both on a professional and a personal level, and that it has served me to learn how to face the different situations and problems that may come up in the work environment and come out stronger from them. And, most of all, it has given me a vision and a perspective of the labour world very different to the one I had until now. Without any doubt, this work placement has given me the opportunity to get to know first-hand the development of the professional activity which I want to professionally develop in the future. Thus, I will be forever very grateful for this great opportunity offered to some students every year.'

ASTURIAS FOUNDATION FOR BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH AND INNOVATION (FINBA)

Biomedical research is essential for the creation of new medicines and for the early diagnosis of diseases and their treatment. The FINBA was launched in 2014 with the hope of contributing significant breakthroughs in biomedical research.

In order to improve the research work, new premises have been inaugurated in the old Psychiatric Hospital building, next to the Hospital Universitario de Asturias (HUCA). This has been possible thanks to the support of different companies and entities, among which the EDP Foundation is included.

Business Intelligence and Operational Efficiency

'In professional terms, the experience is being extraordinary. Since it is my first contact with the labour market in the industry, at first, I felt doubtful and disoriented, but I received the necessary support and help to adapt myself (despite teleworking). Throughout these two months, I have acquired a great deal of knowledge and competencies, such as the use of programmes such as SAS and SQL, where I have programmed and performed extractions. To sum up my professional and personal assessment, I can only say that having the opportunity to take a work placement such as this totally changes your vision of the world you have known until now, you are completely aware of what you are capable of as a professional, it helps you to identify weaknesses and strengthen them, and, furthermore, you create links with a company that operates in the sector of your professional activity.'

'FORO COMUNICACIÓN Y ESCUELA'

Our commitment to the territory is reflected in our maintained partnerships which, year after year, allow us to contribute to the development of the communities in our surroundings, which are facing major challenges related to imbalances between rural and urban life.

An example of this commitment is our partnership, since 2009, with 'Foro Comunicación y Escuela' (Communication and school forum) and the Secondary Education School Elisa y Luis Villamil; an initiative aimed at supplementing the education received by students by using communication as a cross-cutting element in the activities, with the goal of breaking the isolation of young people in rural areas, bearing in mind that school is the best tool to eliminate inequalities.

This year, in spite that the pandemic forced to cancel the Forum, the EDP Foundation kept collaborating with the secondary education school, supporting initiatives carried out by the students.

'I started my work placement on 16 November 2020. The truth is I have no bad words to define my experience in EDP Solar. The tasks I perform in the Product department are various, among which it stands out data analysis related to the information we receive through the call centres we have contracted, in addition to a thorough review of the campaigns we are carrying out in EDP Solar, analysing the scheduled visits and sales of our customers in order to make the percentages tally in a generic dashboard (PowerBI) we have and in the Salesforce platform. The responsibility I assume for my position is important and I am happy to keep learning every day with my tutor, Margarita Silvia Muñoz Polo, and my co-worker, Pablo Gonzalo Sastrón Toledo. The atmosphere at my workplace is pleasant and the relationship with my co-workers is amazing. The renewables world is an industry I have always been passionate about and I am very proud to be part of this project. I have learnt to use different platforms, as I have previously mentioned, Salesforce and PowerBI, which help me learn every day new tasks that I had not known until now. I have been very happy with my experience and my progress since the day I joined the team.'

DESIGN COMPETITION
'ARTE PÚBLICO' (PUBLIC ART)

It is a competition for art, design and architecture students, with domicile in Spain, aimed at supporting them in the execution of a joint artistic and applied architectural design action, following the programme specified by the panel and chaired by Joaquín Vaquero Ibáñez.

It is a public-private innovative action that seeks to impact on the improvement in social inclusion in the community and to foster local development in the rural areas, by using art applied to the environment. Art is used as a social transformation tool that goes beyond the borders of the municipality, building an environment of innovation and social value.

In this first series, in collaboration with the Town Council of Ribera de Arriba, 122 applications were received, with a total of 177 people interested, which were finally reduced to 33 proposals, with a total of 59 participants from 20 Spanish universities.

The panel, comprised by a cross-cutting expert team, with an interdisciplinary profile and perfectly aligned with the defended values, decided, in addition to award the best idea of each line, to grant a recognition to two additional ideas in view of their quality.

PLANTING
FOR BIODIVERSITY

This almost veteran programme is carried out with the collaboration of the environmentalist organisation FAPAS (Fund for the Protection of Wild Animals) and seeks to increase the forest area in an eco-friendly way, contributing to protect biodiversity, in addition to producing fruits to feed the fauna in the area.

In 2020, 8,600 trees were planted in Asturias in areas of public use, specifically in Ribadedeva, in the councils of Ribadedeva and Ribera de Arriba and in the University of Oviedo Campus in Gijón. The action in Ribadedeva was supplemented by a programme through which the eucalyptuses of the forest were removed and used in turn as fertiliser to repopulate the land with indigenous vegetation. In the University Campus, the goal is to foster the formation of a significant leafy forest mass, also boosting biological diversity, since many of these species produce fruits, thus contributing to feed squirrels and other animals. The trees were planted in Ribera de Arriba in an attempt to create a wet forest strip that serves as firewall for the municipal mount. For this purpose, it was a very closed birch plantation, which will allow to generate sufficient dampness to prevent fire from entering the forest mass.

Since its start in 2009,
more than 140,000 trees have been planted in

FUNDACIÓN PATRIMONIO NATURAL DE CASTILLA Y LEÓN

It is a foundation linked to the Castile and Leon Regional Government which seeks to promote, maintain and manage the natural heritage of the Castile and Leon region. The EDP Foundation and EDP Renovables have been collaborating since 2014 to carry out several environmental actions aimed at the conservation of the red kite and which, in 2020, materialised in the following:

- Repair of red kite transmitters purchased in previous campaigns and recovered on the field.
- Acquisition of 6 new transmitters and re-attachment of devices to 10 chicks in their nests.
- Actions to track the breeding population of red kite in the provinces of Salamanca and Zamora.
- Location and tracking of the breeding population of red kite in the province of Salamanca.
- Tracking of the breeding population in the region of Sayago (Zamora).

- Editing, layout and printing of the monograph about the red kite.

REHABILITATION GROUP FOR NATIVE FAUNA AND ITS HABITAT (GREFA)

It is a non-government non-profit organisation which was founded in 1981 as an association for the study and conservation of nature. The EDP Foundation and EDP Renovables collaborate to develop the following projects that have been executed throughout 2020:

- Sponsorship of two specimens of black vulture, classified as a species at risk of extinction, within the conservation programme 'Proyecto Monachus'.
- Assessment of the impact of the waste treatment plant located in the area of the wind farms Altos del Voltoya on the black vulture and red kite populations.
- Correction of an overhead line situated in the area of the wind farms Altos del Voltoya which was successfully completed last month of August. It was a line that, despite not being linked to EDPR infrastructures, was a source of accidents for birds, due to its proximity to a waste treatment plant which was a usual route for birds from their home ranges to their feeding areas, and because it was not fitted out with appropriate security measures against electrocution and collision. In total, action has been taken on 11 dangerous supports and 35 state-of-the-art bird diverters have been installed.

MEASURES AGAINST COVID-19

The EDP Foundation implemented several measures and collaborated with different initiatives during the health care crisis with the aim of contributing to solve and reduce the impact caused by the pandemic. These have been the main collaborations:

- With the regional Government of Asturias, to provide sanitising gel to different essential service workers: police, security services and external public health care workers.
- With the Fundación María Cristina Masaveu Peterson and the Fundación Cajastur, to give all the Asturian citizens free access to the contents on their website for a month.
- With the campaigns of the newspapers La Nueva España ['Asturianos en Casa, a favor de quedarse en casa'] and El Comercio ['Saldremos juntos Asturias, información sobre el decálogo contra el coronavirus'].
- With the Fundación Banco de Alimentos de Asturias, to address the needs of many families, especially those who have lost their jobs.
- With the IMOMA (Asturias Institute for Oncological and Molecular Medicine), funding the studies the IMOMA may conduct in connection with the analysis on individuals potentially infected by virus SARS-CoV-2, for the ultimate purpose of contributing to determine genetic factors that influence the susceptibility of people to the infection by this virus.
- With Cáritas, other NGOs and residential homes in Asturias, for the donation of PPE for the most vulnerable people.
- With the Regional Department of Education of the Principality of Asturias, for the purpose of reducing the digital gap for the most vulnerable families, by funding laptops and thus enabling access to education.
- This initiative, carried out jointly with other companies, was recognised with the 'Premio iTIC Empresa' award, an 'Impulso TIC' initiative that seeks to help and promote technological creation in Asturias.
- With the Asociación de Fundaciones de España, letting their members access the EDP Foundation Academy.
- With the NGO Sed, since, despite the cancellation of the summer camps, EDPR has managed the collaboration with such entity for the care of minors and families in a vulnerable situation or at risk of social exclusion faced with the situation created by COVID. The support has been based on three lines of action: covering basic needs, psychological support and social support.

- With i4case e Innovación EDP, supporting a smart system connected to the telephone through an App that provides clear reference values to monitor patients that are isolated in their homes due to COVID-19 (85%), and that also alerts them and/or health care workers of a dangerous situation that requires hospitalisation. The project has a clear innovation goal, since it expects to define the parameters that govern the healthiness of the air inside people's homes, to estimate the correlation between environmental variables and vital parameters provided by i4case, and to obtain additional information from the processing of the data obtained from the sensorization of people and dwellings/offices in order to establish the environmental conditioning needs.

- With the non-profit association CANVIDA DETECCIÓN, contributing to respond to the crisis caused by the global pandemic, supporting a dog unit for the detection of COVID-19; it is an initiative aimed at detecting people infected by COVID-19, especially those asymptomatic, in transit areas or in crowded environments. The project, which will be initially executed in Asturias, is framed within a broader programme that involves professionals from different fields (health care, university, staff from the Dog Rescue Unit of the Principality of Asturias, etc.), for the purpose of using dogs' ability to smell in order to detect diseases. Its impact may be especially relevant to limit the expansion of COVID-19 and for the gradual return – under safety conditions – of the population to sports and cultural events.
- With EDP Solidaria COVID-19: an extraordinary initiative restricted to the entities selected in previous series of EDP Solidaria (2015-2020) to help entities meet the expenses of the actions carried out in 2020 to respond to the crisis generated by the pandemic.
